Description

These Indian miniature paintings showcases an elegantly dressed Indian man and a lady, the lady elegantly dressed in a traditional sari and adorned with intricate jewellery, the man wearing traditional clothes and a head turban. The man is holding a book in his hand, adding to the intricate details of the piece. The paintings is expertly created using gold and colours on card and has an origin from the Indian Deccan region, specifically Bijapur or Golconda, dating back to circa 1700. The red and black background borders features gold flowering vine, adding to its aesthetic appeal. This piece of art is a perfect representation of India's cultural heritage and is a must-have for art collectors and enthusiasts.
